

P2002,0663

Abstract

Display apparatus

The invention relates to a display apparatus having a display layer (2) and a touch-sensitive layer (3) running parallel thereto. The inventive display apparatuses are characterized in that an antireflection lattice is provided which is arranged on the touch-sensitive layer (3), the lattice elements being able to move toward one another or having a touch sensitivity which is independent of other lattice elements.

Figure 2